We’re committed to harnessing the power of our people, technology and reach to build a worldwide network for good that inspires and enables everyone – whether individuals, charities or global brands – to take action. By giving people easy ways to support causes they’re passionate about and providing charities with tools to boost their fundraising, we’re creating new and enduring sources of support for critical causes around the world. In 2015 we enabled a record amount of giving for charitable organizations around the world.
