Selling with PayPal

When you buy or sell goods or services, make any other commercial type of transaction, send or receive a charity donation or receive a payment when you "request money" using PayPal, we call that a "commercial transaction".

For the listings of selling rates, please visit our PayPal Merchant Fees Page.

Sending and receiving payments

When you send funds (initiated from the "Friends and Family" tab of the "Send" flow) to, or receive funds into your PayPal account from, friends and family without making an underlying commercial transaction (that is, the payment is not for the purchase of goods or services or for making any other commercial transaction), we call that a "personal transaction".

Personal transactions are limited in availability and may not be available in some countries. If you use your credit card as the payment method for a personal transaction, you may be charged a cash-advance fee by your credit card company.

The rates relating to personal transactions are set out below.

Sending domestic personal transactions

Payment Method	Sender Market/Region	Rate
PayPal Balance or Bank account	Where available	No Fee (when no currency conversion is involved)
Cards	Where available	No Fee (when no currency conversion is involved)

Personal payments: If you use another payment method to partially fund the payment, the fee will be pro-rated.

To do this, we may need to convert the fee amount from your sending balance into the currency in which the fee is payable, in which case the fees for "Currency Conversions" also apply. If you use another payment method to partially fund the payment, the fee will be pro-rated.
